

Dear e-Bangi Journal of Social Sciences & Humanities Editors,

We are pleased to submit an original research article entitled “Sustainable Leadership Practices Among Schools Principals and Their Relationship with Teacher Commitment in Malaysia Rural School” for consideration by the E-Bangi Journal of Sosial Sciences and Humanities. We believe that these findings will be interesting to the readers of e-Bangi Journal of Sosial Sciences and Humanities and this manuscript is appropriate for publication by the journal because it is an interdisciplinary publication of original research and writing on education which publishes papers to international audiences of educational researchers.

In this manuscript, this study has presented research on the sustainable leadership practices among school’s principal and their relationship with teacher commitment in Malaysia Rural School. Past studies have found a significant link between sustainable leadership practices and the teacher commitment. However, there has been little discussion about the phenomenal relationship in rural National Secondary School context. Hence, this study surveyed the level of sustainable leadership practices among school principals and the teacher commitment in National Secondary school in rural part of Malaysia. It also investigated whether there is a relationship between both variables. The finding also provides a viable framework that can be used to compare it to findings from similar studies conducted in other regions or public sector as well as provide useful insights for countries with characteristics that are like those of Malaysia in the future.

This manuscript has not been published and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere. We have no conflicts of interest to disclose. Please address all correspondence concerning this manuscript at mhasrizal79@gmail.com. Thank you for your consideration of this manuscript. We look forward to hearing from you.
